

Murder is the game at Masquerade Ball

It's murder. In fact, it's five murders and all at the Masquerade Ball.

The clues are there. The players are there, and you have to solve the mystery.

The alleged time is 7:30 p.m. Nov. 2. The haunted place is the Pioneer Inn Mansion.

The gruesome events are cocktails, murder mystery and dance. Tickets are $10 and are available at the Artspace.

Mystery and intrigue staged by Stage North in the midst of guests in disguises will attract and tantalize the best detectives in town.

Everyone will want to come in costume to try for the variety of prizes including best costume, best detective and best deceiver.

The only non-mysterious element of the Murder Mystery evening is who will supply the music. Systems by Trail offers no problems to solve when he switches on his popular collection of dance tunes which will, no doubt, be topped off by the Monster Mash.

The Murder Mystery has been written by Dawson Creek resident

Anna Stuber.

She is known for her fresh mysterious approach to otherwise traditional detective sleuthing and is no stranger to murder.

At the Masquerade Ball, the debut of her newest murder mystery will have the clueless digging deep for answers.

The Masquerade Ball, complete with five murders, is a fundraiser for the equipment funds for the Cultural Centre.

Each year, Stage North sponsors an event to raise funds for the Cultural Centre.
