The cultural hub of the north

KKNOWN

AS THE cultural hub, the North Peace Cultural Centre invites you to explore all it has to offer in arts and entertainment. Step inside a breathtaking concourse and enter a world of possibilities contained within the walls.

Featuring a theatre with 413 seating capacity, the centre is often bustling with top of the line entertainers and local vendors. The theatre boasts the latest in performance technology-offering a wide range of visual and sound capabilities and comes complete with an experienced professional technical director. Complete with a backstage, green room and separate dressing rooms, it is able to comfortably accommodate standard performance crews.

Most of the events are pre-purchased reserved seating which encourages a formal approach. Once in the theatre, we uphold the highest standards of theatre etiquette and quality and portray this as part of the North Peace Cultural experience.

The North Peace Cultural Centre box office welcomes patrons 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. during the week and one hour before each ticketed event. Over the phone sales are offered for a convenience fee of $0.75 per ticket.

There are three meeting rooms available for functions, two of which can be combined into one large room best used for large banquets and weddings. A variety of set-ups and equipment are available to renters on request.

Patrons also enjoy fresh food and beverages from the in-house café, open daily for lunch specials and offering catering for meeting room functions.

A trip to the art gallery is an absolute must if you are a visiting from out of town. Showcasing the talents of local artisans and works from around the Peace Region, the Peace Gallery North always has something new to see. A regular host to periodic exhibits and two annual fundraising events, gallery functions are a social staple among the artistically aware.

The Fort St. John Public Library is housed within the North Peace Cultural Centre. Having this feature draws a great deal of the general public. Once inside the Centre, you can read a book, peruse the gallery and enjoy lunch while considering your next evening at the theatre!
