

Props needed for musical

The high school play 'Hello Dolly' requires a few items for the play that they have been unable to obtain. They require a number of stand-up hat racks as well as a bench that resembles a park bench. Anyone who has these items or knows where they may be

Still tickets left for school concert

JAN 6, 1978
Tickets for the high school production of 'Hello Dolly' are going fast but they are not gone yet. So if you plan to see a good show you had better get your tickets soon.

The production will be put on February 9, 10, 11 at 8:00 pm in the North Peace Gym. For tickets write to 'Dolly Tickets', North Peace Secondary School, Fort St John enclosing a cheque or money order and stating which night you wish to see the performance.

The two second leads in the play are Lianna Willms who plays Mrs Molloy the hat shop owner and Duane Callahan as Cornelius Hackl the chief clerk in Mr Vandergalders feed store in Yonkers New York.

Cornelius and his friend Barnaby Tucker, another clerk, decide to go to New York to have an adventure. They do this unbeknown to Vandergelder who himself is planning a trip to New York. By some misfortune they all end up in Mrs Molloy's hat shop. Cornelius and Barnaby hide in a cupboard and Vandergelder's unsuccessful attempt to discover who they are leads to zany confusion and his break with Mrs Molloy. Mrs Molloy blackmails them into rewarding her with dinner at the most expensive restaurant in town and they are shamed to admit that they only have a dollar thirty-five.

Throughout the course of the evening and much more confusion Mrs Molloy and Cornelius find they are in love. Cornelius and Barnaby decide that they have had enough of Vandergelder's store and decide to open a rival one right across the street. After much discussion they get things arranged and all still work with Vandergelder.

The play has been getting good support from the community by way of donating many much needed props to make the play as authentic and successful as possible.

"DO YOU REALLY love me?" This may be one of the things Lianna Willms who plays Mrs Molloy in the play 'Hello Dolly' is saying to her counterpart Duane Callahan as Cornelius. The play will be performed on February 9, 10, 11. For tickets you can write to North Peace School or go down in person to pick up your tickets.
